June Davis

June felt healthy and strong, except for an occasional shortness of breath until earlier this year when she was diagnosed with congestive heart failure. "I made some lifestyle changes, like being much more careful with what I ate, and went into the cardiac rehabilitation program at the Regional Heart Center. My whole life has turned around. I have an entirely different way of eating and work out almost every day. The program at the regional heart center really helped me learn how to eat and live a more healthy life."
